

SIMULATOR - ENTER THE UNKNOWN (CMCD1002)

Simulator is the most exciting electronic musician to have hit the scene in recent memory, creating powerful music that spans the gap between dark synthpop and melodic EBM. The project of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania's Ross W. Beall, simulator has already found himself in high demand as a remix artist as well as a live keyboardist, having played with the popular future-pop band Lost Signal, among others.

Cohaagen Music will release simulator's debut album, Enter the Unknown, on May 28, 2002. Featuring 12 solid tracks of precision-crafted electronic perfection, the CD also features guest vocals on several songs by Frank J. Freda of the acclaimed synthpop band Brand New Idol. Overall, this is one album destined to please fans across the entire spectrum of electronic music.

Enter the Unknown will be available from A Different Drum, Amazon, Metropolis, and wherever fine synthpop is sold. The suggested retail price is $13.99. For more information or to feature simulator in your publication, contact us at info@cohaagen.com.
